

fluorochemical excellence
shaping the future

Tin Plated Steel

Sodium hydrogen fluoride produced from hydrogen fluoride, is used as reagent in the electroplating solution for the production of tin plated steel. The inert properties of tin plated steel provide for excellent packaging material for consumer goods such as tin foods, beverage cans and paints.